

Use of English language in CFA UK assessments

All CFA UK qualifications are assessed in English.

Candidates are required to be proficient in English to B2 level, as defined by the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEF or CEFR) which can be found here.

Subject experts monitor the level of English used in all CFA UK assessments. This ensures that the language used is accessible for all candidates and is appropriate to each specific qualification.

Additional time will not be granted to candidates for any CFA UK examination based solely based on the candidate not speaking English as their first language. Our reasonable adjustments policy can be found on our policy page here.